

Sioux Chief Appoints New Director of R&D

KANSAS CITY, MO, March, 2018 -- Sioux Chief Manufacturing recently named Cliff Bennett as Director of Research and Development. Bennett moves into this new role after serving several years as Design Engineering Manager. He has held a number of positions in his 25 years with Sioux Chief, including Quality Control and Director of Manufacturing.

"R&D is very important to a company like Sioux Chief that focuses on innovation," said Joe N. Ismert, President. "Cliff's experience and the commitment he's demonstrated to continuously improving our products and processes is what set him apart."

Bennett will continue to manage the Design Engineering group in addition to his new responsibilities. "This represents a lot of new challenges, but I'll be working with a great team and I'm excited for the opportunity."
